EWC Waste Code Permitted Sites Reports

Industrial sites typically produce physical waste streams and byproducts which are given an appropriate EWC code and description (e.g. "02 02 04 - Sludges from on-site effluent treatment"). Thus, a food manufacturing site will have a range of codes which differ from a chemical producer.

Waste companies (in which are included recyclers, composters, biogas facilities etc) can only accept onto their site the materials that meet the EWC codes listed on their site permit. Hence, a biogas facility might be able to receive EWC 02 02 04, but would have no interest in code 17 04 09 (metal waste contaminated with dangerous substances).

Footprint Services are now able to provide bespoke reports for your company which display the licenced waste companies which are able to receive the EWC coded wastes that your company produces based on their Environment Agency Permits.

An illustration of the nature of the information is given below. Grouped by region, the facilities licenced to accept the EWC codes your company produces are listed, along with the site category (e.g. "Biological Treatment") and the tonnage received by that company in 2016.

02 02 04 (Sludges from on-site effluent treatment)
